

Suggested Ways to Award Prizes for Casinos

TOP WINNERS – Award prizes to the top 3-10 finishers in order of money won.

AUCTION – Have participants bid on prizes with the money they have won.

RAFFLE TICKETS – Sell raffle tickets to participants for $1,000 to $5,000 each (sometimes the fewer the better). If someone doesn't want to participate in the casino, they can still buy five tickets with the $5,000 starting money. If a participant wins a lot of money, they get more raffle tickets. Tickets are done to award prizes. Participants may win only one time. It is sometimes convenient to limit the number of tickets someone can win to 10 or 20 (imagine counting out $350,000 worth of tickets, and yes, that sometimes happens).

CHINESE AUCTION – Same as above, but participants put their tickets in a different raffle bin in front of each prize. Each prize is then drawn for from only it's raffle bin.

COMBINATIONS – Some popular combinations have the top three finishers winning the grand prizes and then other's participating through a Raffle or Chinese Auction.

NOTE – Sometimes it is important to enforce a “win only one time” rule so one participant does not win too many prizes. It helps to collect the tickets they have left over so they cannot get someone else to win prizes for them.

To Whom It May Concern:

Bobby K Entertainment Fantasy Casinos are always run in the same manner:

- Participants receive a set amount of fantasy cash bills (usually 5 - $1,000 bills).
- Bills are traded for chips at the casino tables.
- Bills may also be traded for slot machine tokens where applicable.
- If a person loses all their chips and bills, they are finished.
- A participant may not buy or receive additional chips or bills by purchasing another admission or by paying additional monies.
- There cannot be a cash value set on the chips and/or fantasy bills.
- You may charge an admission to an event that includes casino gambling as entertainment, but it must be a one time set charge.

When the casino is finished, prizes may be awarded in a variety of ways (see attached prize methodology sheet).
